

Extension of construction hoarding and crosswalk closure at Albert Street and James Street

Expected start date: As early as February 10, 2025

Hours of work: Weekdays from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Duration: Two (2) weeks of work to reconfigure the work zone and install hoarding. The crosswalk will be closed until station construction is completed.

What is happening?

Construction is underway for the Ontario Line station at Queen. Crews will extend the site footprint and fencing at Albert Street and James Street. This extension requires closing the crosswalk on the south side of Albert Street and James Street.

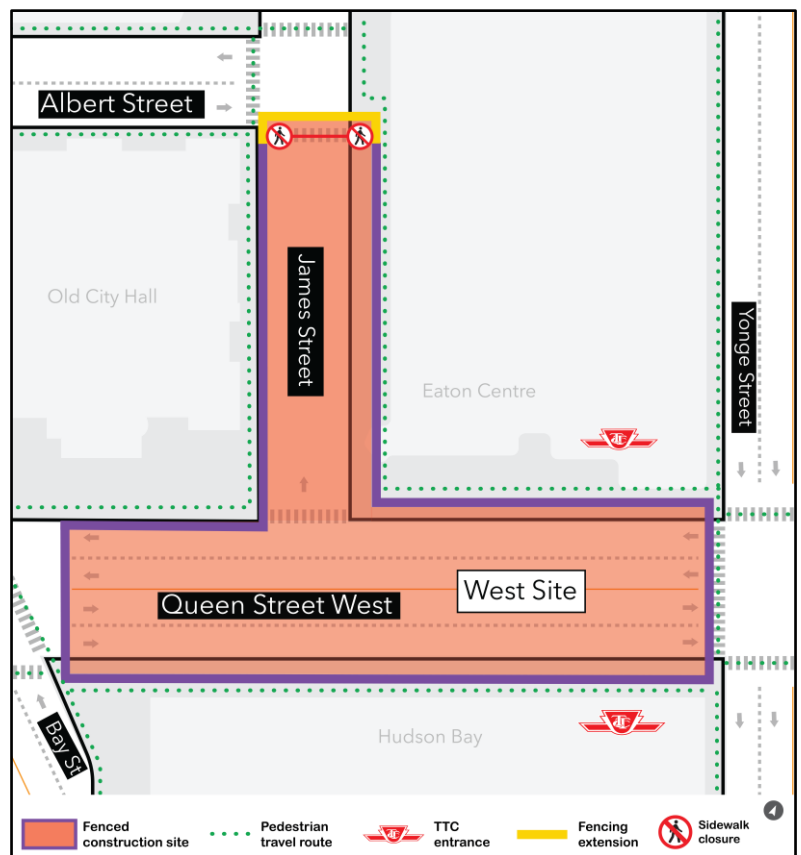

As indicated on the map, pedestrians will be able to cross James Street at Albert Street from the north side.

What to expect

- As early as February 10, 2025, work will begin to extend the current construction hoarding approximately 5 metres north, closing the south crosswalk at the James Street and Albert Street intersection.
- Crews will install the new hoarding over a period of approximately two weeks.
- Neighbours may hear noise from construction while this work is completed.
- Once complete, the crosswalk will remain closed until station construction is completed.
- Pedestrians will be required to cross James Street from the north side of Albert Street.
- Signage will be in place to direct pedestrians.
