

Safety measures at the station sites in Corktown: Hoist alarms in use

When: Beginning week of March 24, 2025

Time: 7:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m.

Duration: Remainder of project construction

What is happening?

As construction progresses at the future station in Corktown, there is an increase in the need to hoist equipment and materials in and out of the excavated area, to support critical work during the remaining construction phase of the station. To maintain the highest safety standards, starting immediately, hoist alarms will be in use. These alarms provide audible alerts during lifting operations, ensuring both workers and the community remain aware of active hoisting activity taking place within the site; no loads will be lifted over public properties.

Hoist alarms will be used on equipment such as tower cranes, mobile cranes, and material hoists, which are essential for transporting heavy materials, structural components, and other construction supplies. As the project advances, these alarms will help prevent potential hazards by audibly signaling when lifting operations are in progress, reinforcing our commitment to safety. These alarms will be used during the work hours of 7:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. Exceptions may apply where lifts may have to be carried out prior to 7:00 a.m. or after the 11:00 p.m. Advanced notice will be provided whenever possible.
