Drury Lane Pedestrian Bridge

The reopening of the Drury Lane Pedestrian Bridge is being postponed. Once ready, the bridge will open for safe pedestrian and cyclist travel, while final construction work continues to prepare for full opening. We apologize for the delay and any inconvenience this may cause.

The shuttle service will continue to operate until the bridge reopens. For more information please visit:

We will share the revised opening date as soon as it is confirmed.

What you need to know

Metrolinx has worked with the City of Burlington to replace the Drury Lane Pedestrian Bridge with a brand-new, barrier-free bridge.

Once open, the new bridge will provide improved access across the rail corridor, as well as offer a crucial link for community members to get to the nearby Burlington GO Station, local schools and amenities.

Please continue to be mindful of increased construction traffic using local roads.

Metrolinx has a dedicated community engagement team in place that works with residents and businesses in the Halton Region. If you have any questions, please contact us using the information on this card.
